

NEW HORIZONS 2019 5-6 March 2019

The Lexington-Concord Chapter of AFCEA International is pleased to announce New Horizons 2019 to be held 5-6 March 2019, at the Marriott Hotel in Newton, Massachusetts. Our agenda reflects today's dynamic environment and includes a broad regional look at near-term opportunities while retaining the important interchange between the government and industry partners. The Honorable James "Hondo" Guerts, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Research, Development and Acquisition will be our Keynote Speaker. This year's agenda includes the Hanscom AFB Program Executive Officers (PEOs) and their Division Chiefs, PEO for Nuclear Command, Control and Communications, U.S. Army RD&E Command, Multi Domain Command and Control (MDC2), Air Force Research Laboratory (AFRL) and General Services Administration (GSA). We will also host a panel on "Sourcing Technology from Non-Traditional Suppliers" followed by Rapid Fire Technology Pitches from the local startup community with demonstrations during the evening reception. The second day will conclude by 1:30 pm, followed by AFLCMC Government Small Business panel. The afternoon session is not a formal part of New Horizons and will be announced separately through FEDBIZOPS.

We will host an AFCEA "Gold Circle" breakfast on March 6th. Guest Speaker is Dr Barry Horowitz, Department Chair, Systems and Information Engineering Department, University of Virginia. Proceeds from this event directly benefit the Chapter's scholarship program, which support the local military community and STEM education efforts in area schools and colleges. Separate registration is required for the Gold Circle Breakfast and details can be found on the chapter website.

REGISTRATION

The registration fee is $575 for industry (including the Gold Circle Breakfast) and free for active duty military and government civilians. There are three ways to register:
